Logged in: startinopensource

Learn about Fedora   Download Fedora   Projects   Join Fedora   Communicate   Help/Documentation   Code of Conduct

Home

My Account

Group List

Join a Group

Yubikey

News

A valid country and telephone number are required to complete the FPCA. Please fill them out below.

Fedora Project Contributor Agreement

Text Version

The Fedora Project Contributor Agreement

http://fedoraproject.org/wiki/Legal:Fedora_Project_Contributor_Agreement

[Version 2015-02-03]

Goal

We require that contributors to Fedora (as defined below) agree to this Fedora Project Contributor Agreement (FPCA) to ensure that contributions to Fedora have acceptable licensing terms.

Non-Goals

The FPCA is not a copyright assignment agreement.

The FPCA does not somehow supersede the existing licensing terms that apply to Fedora contributions. There are two important subpoints here. First, the FPCA does not apply to upstream code (or other material) that you didn't write; indeed, it would be preposterous for it to attempt to do so. Note the narrow way in which we have defined capital-c "Contribution". Second, the main provision of the FPCA specifies that a default license will apply to code that you wrote, but only to the extent that you have not bothered to put an explicit license on it. Therefore, the FPCA is not some sort of special permissive license granted to any party, despite the explicit choice of a more restrictive license by you or by upstream developers.

Terms

0. Definitions.

"Acceptable License For Fedora" means a license selected from the appropriate categorical sublist of the full list of acceptable licenses for Fedora, currently located at https://fedoraproject.org/wiki/Licensing, as that list may be revised from time to time by the Fedora Project Council. "Acceptable Licenses For Fedora" means that full list.

"CC-BY-SA" means the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 3.0 Unported license, as published at http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/3.0/legalcode.

"Code" means (i) software code, (ii) any other functional material whose principal purpose is to control or facilitate the building of packages, such as an RPM spec file, (iii) font files, and (iv) other kinds of copyrightable material that the Fedora Project Council has classified as "code" rather than "content".

"Content" means any copyrightable material that is not Code, such as, without limitation, (i) non-functional data sets, (ii) documentation, (iii) wiki edits, (iv) music files, (v) graphic image files, (vi) help files, and (vii) other kinds of copyrightable material that the Fedora Project Council has classified as "content" rather than "code".

"Contribution" means a Work that You created, excluding any portion that was created by someone else. (For example, if You Submit a package to Fedora, the spec file You write may be a Contribution, but all the upstream code in the associated SRPM that You did not write is not a Contribution for purposes of this FPCA.) A Contribution consists either of Code or of Content.

"Current Default License", with respect to a Contribution, means (i) if the Contribution is Code, the MIT License, and (ii) if the Contribution is Content, CC-BY-SA supplemented by Moral Rights Clause Waiver and GPL Relicensing Permission.

"Fedora" means the community project led by the Fedora Project Council https://fedoraproject.org/wiki/Council.

"Fedora Community" means (i) all Fedora participants, and (ii) all persons receiving Contributions directly or indirectly from or through Fedora.

"GPL" means the GNU General Public License, version 2 or any later version published by the Free Software Foundation, or the GNU Affero General Public License, version 3 or any later version published by the Free Software Foundation.

"GPL-Covered Derivative" of a Contribution means an adaptation or derivative work of the Contribution, or a compilation that includes the Contribution (or such adaptation or derivative work), where such adaptation, derivative work, or compilation, if distributed or made available to the public, would be required to be licensed under the GPL because it is based on or includes a Work governed by the GPL.

"GPL Relicensing Permission", with respect to a Contribution licensed under CC-BY-SA, means a grant of additional copyright permission to distribute or make available to the public a copy of a GPL-Covered Derivative of the Contribution under the terms of the applicable version of the GPL, with no conditions of CC-BY-SA that would be treated as "further restrictions" within the meaning of the applicable version of the GPL surviving such distribution with respect to that copy.

"Licensed" means covered by explicit licensing terms that are conspicuous and readily discernible to recipients.

"MIT License" means the license identified as "Modern Style with sublicense" at https://fedoraproject.org/wiki/Licensing:MIT#Modern_Style_with_sublicense.

"Moral Rights Clause Waiver" means a waiver of the right to enforce, and an agreement not to assert, Section 4d of CC-BY-SA against the Fedora Community, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law.

"Submit" means to use some mode of digital communication (for example, without limitation, mailing lists, bug tracking systems, and source code version control systems administered by Fedora) to voluntarily provide a Contribution to Fedora.

"Unlicensed" means not Licensed.

"Work" means a copyrightable work of authorship. A Work may be a portion of a larger Work, and a Work may be a modification of or addition to another Work.

"You" means the individual accepting this instance of the FPCA.

1. Copyright Permission Required for All Contributions.

If You are not the copyright holder of a given Contribution that You wish to Submit to Fedora (for example, if Your employer or university holds copyright in it), it is Your responsibility to first obtain authorization from the copyright holder to Submit the Contribution under the terms of this FPCA on behalf of, or otherwise with the permission of, that copyright holder. One form of such authorization is for the copyright holder to place, or permit You to place, an Acceptable License For Fedora on the Contribution.

2. Licensed Contributions.

If Your Contribution is Licensed, Your Contribution will be governed by the terms under which it has been licensed.

3. Default Licensing of Unlicensed Contributions.

If You Submit an Unlicensed Contribution to Fedora, the license to the Fedora Community for that Contribution shall be the Current Default License.

The Fedora Project Council may, by public announcement, subsequently designate an additional or alternative default license for a given category of Contribution (a "Later Default License"). A Later Default License shall be chosen from the appropriate categorical sublist of Acceptable Licenses For Fedora.

Once a Later Default License has been designated, Your Unlicensed Contribution shall also be licensed to the Fedora Community under that Later Default License. Such designation shall not affect the continuing applicability of the Current Default License to Your Contribution.

You consent to having Fedora provide reasonable notice of Your licensing of Your Contribution under the Current Default License (and, if applicable, a Later Default License) in a manner determined by Fedora.

4. Public Domain United States Government Works.

Sections 1 through 3 of this FPCA do not apply to any Contribution to the extent that it is a work of the United States Government for which copyright is unavailable under 17 U.S.C. 105.

5. Acceptance.

You must signify Your assent to the terms of this FPCA through specific electronic means established by Fedora (such as by click-through acceptance means).

Full name: How to start in Open Source
E-Mail: howtostartinopensource@gmail.com
Country:
Telephone:
Facsimile:

You may also, at Your option, and without eliminating the requirement set forth in the preceding paragraph, send a copy of this FPCA, bearing Your written signature indicating Your acceptance of its terms, by email to legal@fedoraproject.org, by fax to +1 919 754 3704, or by postal mail to:

Fedora Legal
c/o Red Hat, Inc.
100 East Davie Street
Raleigh, NC 27601
USA

Text Version

If any of the following is inaccurate, please correct it now:

Full Name: How to start in Open Source

Telephone Number: +55 11 995846074

Country: Brazil(BR) ▼

If your country is not listed, select "Other"

☑ I certify that the above information (my name, country, and phone number) are accurate to the best of my knowledge.

I agree | I do not agree

About | Contact Us | Legal & Privacy | Trademark Guidelines